

Employment Training & Consultation

Increase effectiveness, expand capacity, and improve your person-centered delivery outcomes!

Community rehabilitation providers across the state have expressed their need for access to knowledgeable, intensive employment training and consultation services that can improve the quality of services and outcomes for job seekers funded through Indiana Vocational Rehabilitation Services. To meet that need, the Center on Community Living and Careers, a department of the Indiana Institute on Disability and Community, is now offering customized technical assistance and training, designed to address the specific needs of your program or agency.

Training and consultation, delivered by CCLC's Employment Technical Assistance Team, includes field-based coaching and mentoring, hands-on skills practice, virtual technology, and one-to-one support.

You can purchase training and consultation as a component of the Establishment Project training plan, or, you can choose to purchase training and consultation independently.

We're good at this!

Our team works with providers throughout Indiana, providing technical assistance to employment staff on the foundational skills needed to deliver quality employment services. We have experience:

- Increasing productivity;
- Improving systems, which can help take providers out of the red and into the black;
- Clarifying how to best document employment services and activities;
- And much more.

We're flexible, and we'll work with you to help you with your technical assistance and training needs.
