JobTIPS
Do you have students with autism and other disabilities who would benefit from a social skills assessment and tips for receiving constructive feedback?
Have you considered the environmental demands that are important to making a good job match for an individual?
Have you considered teaching topics such as social interactions, coping strategies, bullying and harassment in the workplace?

JobTIPS addresses the social and behavioral differences that might make identifying, obtaining, and keeping a job more difficult.

This program (including all of the printables, assessments, and videos) is suitable for delivery by teachers, family members, clinicians, mentors, and job coaches. It includes ideas for personal appearance, interactions with co-workers, coping strategies, and workplace bullying and harassment. Click here to learn more.
