Student Self-Evaluation Form
Do you struggle with obtaining transition assessment information for students who spend all or the majority of their time in general education classes?
Could you use an easy way to teach and promote self-determination and self-advocacy skills with all your students?
Do you need a tool for students to self-evaluate his/her strengths, interests, preferences, and needs after specific activities?

The attached form can be used as a transition assessment tool for students who spend all or the majority of their time in general education classes as well as all other students. Teachers can gather transition assessment information about the student from projects, experiences or activities in specific classes that would be useful in developing the Transition IEP.

On behalf of the INdiana Secondary Transition Resource Center, we wish you Happy Holidays and some much needed relaxation.
