Transition and UD/DI
Have you thought about how good instruction is the foundation of good transition services?
Have you considered using universal design for learning and differentiated instruction (UDDI) as the part of transition assessment?
Do you know what UDDI is?

In partnership with the Resource Center for Assessment and Instruction, the INdiana Secondary Transition Resource Center (INSTRC) presents a 10-minute tutorial on the overview of UDDI. As you watch this short tutorial, think about how using learning styles, interest inventories and learning profiles with UDDI can also serve as transition assessments.
