Using Youthhood.org
Do you sometimes struggle to meet all of the transition needs and services for some of your students?
Would you like an easy website for students to engage with and learn transition skills?
Would you like some lesson ideas that can be conducted individually or in groups?

Go to www.youthhood.org to help young adults learn some of the critical transition skills required after high school. It is a site designed for transition-aged youth and adults who support them. Here youth can start thinking about what they want to do with the rest of their lives. This web site was built to help young adults plan for the future. Students will learn to answer questions such as - What will you do after high school? Will you work? Go to college? Live in a place of your own? You and your students can use this web site to plan for their futures right now! In addition, the information gathered from the students can be incorporated and summarized as part of the transition assessment. Topics covered include:

- The High School
- The Job Center
- The Community Center
- The Hangout
- The Government Center
- The Health Center
- The Apartment
